A MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR GENERAL

The International Air Transport Association (IATA) is the trade association for the world's airlines, representing over 290 airlines or 83% of total air traffic. We support many areas of aviation activity and help formulate industry policy on critical aviation issues.

Reconnecting the world

We are well past the deepest point of the crisis. Serious issues remain. But the path to recovery is coming into view as COVID-19 vaccination rates rise and governments gradually reinstate the freedom to travel.

We advocate for a set of simple and clear principles to drive the reestablishment of global connectivity: Much of this is under the control of governments. And it is critical that they work together. A common list of WHO-approved vaccines and a united approach to the treatment of minors are the baseline essentials. On top of that, simplicity should be the guide.

And a continuous review of pandemic-related measures should be an embedded procedure to ensure that measures do not remain in place any longer than necessary.

The IATA Travel Pass is also a part of the solution. It has now proven its capability to manage travel credentials digitally. This is critical for an efficient scaling up of operations and return to the use of automated and digital processes. This includes a solution for governments to incorporate COVID-19 document checks with efficient e-gates.
